

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An electronic appliance, comprises an input section to input information regarding at least one of a right and a certification given from a predetermined public organization; a memory section to memorize the information inputted by the inputted section; an output section to output the information memorized in the memory section as information concerning the electronic appliance; and a control section to control the input section, the memory section and the output section.

09957-1991
SECRET